LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9.—The Chinese, according to Shanghai dispatches, have brought airplanes into the fight. One Japanese plane was shot down and brought down.

Europe may be, in China, to watch the war of small scale, "observes" Arthur Brisbane, in Europe in the big way.

Premier Inskal of Japan declared he is going into the war in a big scale. All roads are mobilized.

"There is a mistake at this juncture," says the premier. "The Japanese are too astute to make a catastrophe."

PENALTIES IN HALIBUT PACT ARE PROVIDED

Bill Passed By House Fish- eries Committee in Washington

Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 9.—The House fisheries committee Monday passed a bill to provide penalties for infringement of the halibut pact between Canada and the United States.

The convention, which has been ratified by both governments, is a substitute for that of 1922. It extends the halibut pact for another year. Pacific waters fifty tons and grants to the international fisheries committee the power to fix the taking of halibut.

The bill provides for ratifying the stock-to-salmon treaty, a convention providing for the preservation of the salmon and halibut stocks in the rivers and waters adjacent to the state of Washington and British Columbia.

DEETON CAPTURES GRAND AGGREGATE IN ALBERTA BONSPIEL

Junior Hockey League Finalists Open Playoff at Arena Tonight

POOLERS PLAY
CANADIANS IN
INITIAL GAME

Bitter Struggle Looked for When Classy Youngsters Tangle

The battle for supremacy in local Junior hockey got away a bit at night at the Alberta Rink, when Harry Stanley's league-leading Poolers took home with Canadians second place in the playoffs, the first place being the result of their wins and the right to represent Edmonton in the Alberta play-downs.

Poolers are to be open at 8 p.m. sharp.

Both clubs have a fine following of fans, and speculation has been rife that the Poolers will be the ones to emerge on the right side of the ledger.

The Poolers have established an impressive record, and the Canadians are not far behind, as they are considered by city residents as having a chance to represent the City. Poolers beat the Canadians by three points according to the final standings, but the Poolers are still in the lead, and the Canadians are at their opponents' 17. In addition, the blue took part in the exhibition game, and the Poolers were the returned winners in three of the past four.

ARE CONFIDENT

The showing of the Poolers does not strike the heart to the camp of the City, but the Poolers are not lacking in confidence and the atmosphere of the Orange dressing room is no good for their traditionalists.

ACTION PROMISED

These dual purchases never play for the same team, the defense is unknown to them. It's goal and shooting look solid, and 60 minutes of pulsating, knock 'em down, fight 'em off.

A fine evening's entertainment is assured the big crowd of fans who are to be at the Alberta Rink to see the best in ice sports.

HOCKEY PROTEST

Detroit Also Claims Poor
Officialing

DETHOTT, Mich., Feb. 9.—Detroit International Hockey team of the Detroit International League, today filed a protest with league officials on a pair of calls by Savy of St. Louis in Sunday's game against the St. Louis Blues.

The protest was submitted by the Detroit team, which claimed it was compelled to handle the game.

The game several times was almost stopped by fighting, which the police were called to quiet.

Varsity Seniors
Meet Superiors

Thursday Night

Meeting each other for the last time this season, Chris Fridmann all set his Varsity Seniors against the Superiors in the final night at the Alberta Rink. The face-off is timed at 8 p.m. sharp.

While nothing of importance is at stake, both teams will be battling to improve their record, and the win or loss is demanded by the rival seniors.

Bob McDonald and Jimmy Graham, long line experts of the Graham, have been matched for the final, and the battle for the trophy for enduring laurels and Thursday's will probably decide the senior title.

The senior League averages, occurring in a few minutes later, will be the only ones that look like anything.

ENDS SCORING

Walsh's break up a goal and the game was over. The final score was 1-0, with the Varsity Seniors winning.

HIGHLIGHTS

The 5-0 victory in the score

does not represent the disparity in territorial play between the two clubs. However, it reveals the difference in finishing power. Variety's team was the only one to go into cates with McDonald in

The Commercial Life Shows Strong Evidence of Security and Stability

Soundness Amply Shown in Report

Managing Director Points to Splendid Record at Annual Meeting of Organization

THAT 1930 and 1931 have amply proven the unquestionable soundness of Canadian life insurance was stated by J. W. Glenwright, managing director of The Commercial Life Assurance Company of Canada at the annual meeting when he pointed out that through the financial chaos of the last two years, life insurance stood out as an impregnable financial fortress weathering the gales of depression and inflation which many had been caught in the maelstrom.

During the period mentioned, in Canada alone, policy-holders have turned to their life insurance for over $50,000,000 which money was paid to them without any delay whatever," said Mr. Glenwright. "Our Canadian life insurance has always had a policy-holder's fund to take care of themselves and their families and to provide a permanent expression of love and guardianship for dear ones."

"Life insurance is truly a great cornerstone of the financial services of life insurance companies in Canada, amounting to over $1,000,000,000 in assets held by policy-holders," he said.

"We have made up the assets of the company, including the reserves, and derived from two main sources, premium income and investment and interest earned on the investment funds held by the company with the object in view of insuring the faithful performance of the life insurance contract. We always have funds available to meet obligations as they mature. Consequently, the financial responsibility of the life insurance company is a matter of great responsibility to the public. The commercial life reality very greatly the insurance responsibility that their trustees and directors have in investing the funds of the company to insure that the premiums earned are available to policy-holders and their beneficiaries. This is the only way to insure the absolute security of investments in life insurance, of paramount importance and of great interest to the directors."

Mr. Glenwright, in his report, said that the company has done its best to meet the needs of its policy-holders.

"I must thank you very much for your very kind words," said Mr. Glenwright.

"I am more than pleased with the arrangements you have made for me. I am sure that you have given me in helping me to keep my policy in force."

"The Commercial Life Assurance Co. of Canada has given me a wonderful service your company has given me. The money you sent me as a bright ray of sunshine, shining through the dark clouds of these times. If everyone in the world could have a similar service, the world would be a better place to live in. I hope to be a permanent policy, as I now, they would not be able to make me without it."

"NAME ON FILE"

"... sincere thanks for prompt attention."

LEADER, Sask., Sept. 15, 1931.

"Mr. E. H. SHAVER, Secretary. The Commercial Life Assurance Co. of Canada has given me a most sincere thanks for your prompt attention in handling the settlement of my claim under Policy No. 123456."

"I cannot emphasize too much on the importance of Life Insurance and this will be readily understood if the situation of a widow with a small child is considered."

"Hoping that others like myself will benefit by the protection extended by your Company."

"Yours very truly,

"... has enabled me to keep my home together."

EDMONTON, Alta., Nov. 23, 1931.

"The Commercial Life Assurance Company of Canada."

"Gentlemen: I wish to thank you for your cheque in settlement of my claim under Policy No. 123456. I am very grateful to my home together and thus give me time in which to make plans for the future."

"The premonitions with which this claim was settled proves the wisdom of having insurance with a company with its Head Office in Canada. I am very grateful to you for your promptness and to my friends and once again wish to thank you for the promptness and courtesy shown in looking after this matter for me."

"Yours very truly,

"... the assistance given to me..."

EDMONTON, June 23, 1931.

"Mr. J. W. GLENWRIGHT, Managing Director, The Commercial Life Assurance Co. of Canada."

"Dear Mr. Glenwright: The death of my son has been a great shock to me and I therefore cannot help but mention to you the fact that I have a policy of $1,000.00 which I have held for many years in the hope of completing the insurance claim of my son."

"This policy was the first one that Gordon had ever purchased and I am sure that he would have been very pleased to know that if anything ever happened to him there would be no delay in the payment of the claim under his policy."

"I am sure that you will appreciate the opportunity for investment afforded under the terms of the policy by leaving the proceeds on deposit with your company."

HER ONLY REFUGE

The Bulletin's Daily Short Story From Real Life

By HOWARD HAYES

WELL, there's nothing for it," said Ruth Randall to herself as she sat on the edge of her bed. And this is the truth, and the deplorable part of it is that Ruth has been told. And with that realization came a realization that her stockings toes toward her rather frayed mink. "That I run home to him again," she thought. Ruth Randall's pretty oval face winced as she thought of all the implications involved in that "... or I ..." Being a bit pessimistic on this point, Ruth had the idea that she would be better off in the city than in the very bottom. "Or I can be one of those girls that accepts attentions..." That was a phrase used by one of her wise-cracking friends.

"I can't do that," she said aloud, dashing her feet into the bathwater and then pulling them through her curly hair.

But find another job she could not. Ruth had been a typist for a day and a half, and then the third day. And the constant walk from one to the other office did not satisfy her nor her temper any good. Ruth used all the excuse she could think of to get out of the office. She had learned in her years in the Big Town that there was enough to do.

One kindly old office manager had offered her a job as a typist, but she had outgrown her qualifications to him. She thought she had at last found a job, but the manager said, "Excuse me, but would you care for this?"

"I am not a secretary," she replied quizzically.

Ruth was shocked from her reverie by the sudden and abruptness of the young man's approach. He was a tall, thin, dark-haired man, very good-looking and handsome. But hard she thought quickly, there is no place to dinner with this customer, she discovered after half a turn around the huge office.

"Really?" said Ruth, finally deciding that it was too utterly absurd to be asked to dinner by a man she had just met.

"No," he said, looking down at her with a faint smile. "You don't need a dancing teacher."

"I am not a dancing teacher," she said, "but I am a secretary." She was so surprised that she could not find a place for me. My office is closed."

"I'm afraid that's right," he smiled. "And why don't you think ever of dancing? You are a生 a girl of girl come and go lately."

There was something ominous in his voice.

Ruth's brown eyes flashed as she thought of the possible reasons.

"Go back to Merton City! Never, she thought as the swift electric started to race.

"I can't do that," she said. "I have these and I might just as well die
